Room shortfalls trip up living arrangements

Amber Cleveland
Senior Staff Writer

It's a matter of waiting on a campus-wide email. With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.

With Missouri Hall renovations beginning this fall, the Office of Residence Life ended Nov. 28 the pre-registration period that would allow students to select where they wanted to live next year. The University's boiler system, however, was not impacted by the closure because it has two main lines that supply the boiler with water. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail. It's a matter of reading campus e-mail.