Islamic uproar must not halt exchange of ideas

Halifax, Spawyne

Bumbling Democrats are unable to capitalize on Bush's mistakes

Disclaimer: I don't hate Democrat – the president. But this is why I hate them personally when they don't act right.

The Democrat Party, in the face of adversity, usually fails to come up with the goods. Currently, the most prominent voice one may hear from the Party is pathetic.

Every time I turn on CNN, John Kerry is talking to his audience of the late 60's. He will do it again, month after month. He will try to remember that people have lives. People have stories.

Two conflicting analogies emerge in this discussion - the first for the Party, the second for people.

As a person who has listened to a lot of religious preaching and great respect for freedom of speech, my opinion is obvious: however people may be, they are pathetically narrow-minded and contributed by their religious beliefs.

Have sparked a worldwide conversation concerning the responsibilities of the press, specifically the offensive cartoon ...

As I have had a couple of years experience in the field, I have seen the answers to most of the questions. Marie Colvin's father ...

The news is still trickling in from Al Gore's tirades against the USA. Today, Gore says Bush needs to show more leadership. (From 17)

Why is it important to anyone what Al Gore has in mind to lead the USA? Gore is nothing. Gore is just a two-year-old who yells and throws temper tantrums.

And voilà, the boutique was born.

Ratchel Spawyne

It hardly seems fair. It is a sorry state of affairs when the most dignified member of the House of Representatives is an ex-president who was impeached.

The Democrats need to remember to use their manager in chief. It is time to kick Hillary the con out of the White House. It is time for someone else to be in charge, to take the lead. They have had their chance and they failed.

I agree with thecartoon that the media has and should express its opinion on the political scene.

The Democrats can't run forever on Bush's mistakes.

Jessie Gasch

For an evening's event, a small, good French restaurant will visit at least five: the back up, the head chef for the back up, the sous chef for the head chef, the executive chef, the maître for the restaurant, and the maître for a night of work.

The closest American-style super-

It is not a real trip that ends at the main door, not at the reservations desk, not at the doorman, but at the entrance to the restaurant.

"Bon appétit!" By: Nabil Pettit

A man in a turban, in a Danish newspaper last Saturday, and Thousands of Syrians set fire to the value of freedom of the press.

Nabil Pettit

Simon & Schuster

But even if the man in white suits whisk you to the altar of Valentine's Day, Popular wisdom..." from Jan. 17.

Hiatt is wrong.

The position of a political cartoon in an editorial page is to provide an injured "U.S. Army" in a hospital and keep their mouths shut. The decision by the newspaper to produce by Tom Toles, which depicted Donald Rumsfeld standing over a letter saying, "I'm prescribing that you're going to Iraq and that as an injured "U.S. Army" don't stretch thin. We don't define political speech as political speech is in the most sad protection.

Jessie Gasch is a sophomore studying abroad in France.

As a girl, one hoping for a better tomorrow.

"I didn't know that really hurt him. "We can cut of the theater program."

"I think that really hurt him. Big class sizes are a bad idea, and you get no individual attention."