Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.

INSIDE FRONT

Thursday, January 26, 2006

Cuts spur sales tax proposal

Three-eight-cent tax could benefit ambulance district

by Kyle R. Lamb

The Adair County Ambulance District Board has decided to submit a sales tax increase at the annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 19. Currently, Kirksville’s tax rate is 7.475 percent. If the ambulance district is allowed to retain a quarter-cent of sales tax, it would raise Kirksville’s sales tax rate to 7.725 percent. The last increase was voted on by the county council in December. It just didn’t happen because the council had just passed a resolution and its terms were in doubt.

Since 1985, the Kansas City Board of Education has decided to request a tax increase, which is a method of fundraising authorized by the Missouri General Assembly, which allows that money to be spent on property tax relief. The Adair County Ambulance District Board used this same mechanism to request the sales tax increase.

A key concern at the board meeting was the cost of providing ambulance services to Adair County.

For the April election, Cuts spur sales tax proposal.