letters to the editor

The Index welcomes letters expressing the views of its readers. All letters should be concise and not exceed 300 words except at the discretion of the editorial board. Letters to the editor also may be submitted by e-mail at index@truman.edu or on our Web site at www.trumanindex.com. Include your full name, major, class standing, major school and any other pertinent information. Please submit only original material, not previously published in any way. No letters will be printed unless the writer signs them.

Letters to the Editor

March 5 article reproves facts, according to detractor

Larry Iles

Kirkville Mayor Deborah Mott's abrupt resignation Monday came as a stunner to the city's citizens, but no one was more surprised than Mott herself. She was placed in the position to step down after the controversy surrounding her time as mayor.

By accepting the resignation, Mott made it clear she was unable to continue fulfilling her role as mayor of Kirkville. The city's reputation was at stake after questions emerged in the community about her leadership following the election. The city council intended to continue with the city's economics to complete her term.

In these circumstances, the decision to appoint Mott was the best decision for the city.

The initiatives to become more economically viable must be backed up with a strong leader. Kirkville residents should attend candidate forums before the election to fully understand the candidates' ideas and question them about crucial issues.

Students and residents must use their voices precisely this April, voting for candidates and residents' rights in the city and the state for quality and safety.

It should be clear that candidates not registered to vote should be disqualified.

The four-year terms in which one student can run for mayor should be extended. The city's history sex and disability discrimination.

Letters to the Editor

March 5 article reproves facts, according to detractor

Larry Iles

Kirkville Mayor Deborah Mott's abrupt resignation Monday came as a stunner to the city's citizens, but no one was more surprised than Mott herself. She was placed in the position to step down after the controversy surrounding her time as mayor.

By accepting the resignation, Mott made it clear she was unable to continue fulfilling her role as mayor of Kirkville. The city's reputation was at stake after questions emerged in the community about her leadership following the election. The city council intended to continue with the city's economics to complete her term.

In these circumstances, the decision to appoint Mott was the best decision for the city.

The initiatives to become more economically viable must be backed up with a strong leader. Kirkville residents should attend candidate forums before the election to fully understand the candidates' ideas and question them about crucial issues.

Students and residents must use their voices precisely this April, voting for candidates and residents' rights in the city and the state for quality and safety.

It should be clear that candidates not registered to vote should be disqualified.

The four-year terms in which one student can run for mayor should be extended. The city's history sex and disability discrimination.

Letters to the Editor

March 5 article reproves facts, according to detractor

Larry Iles

Kirkville Mayor Deborah Mott's abrupt resignation Monday came as a stunner to the city's citizens, but no one was more surprised than Mott herself. She was placed in the position to step down after the controversy surrounding her time as mayor.

By accepting the resignation, Mott made it clear she was unable to continue fulfilling her role as mayor of Kirkville. The city's reputation was at stake after questions emerged in the community about her leadership following the election. The city council intended to continue with the city's economics to complete her term.

In these circumstances, the decision to appoint Mott was the best decision for the city.

The initiatives to become more economically viable must be backed up with a strong leader. Kirkville residents should attend candidate forums before the election to fully understand the candidates' ideas and question them about crucial issues.

Students and residents must use their voices precisely this April, voting for candidates and residents' rights in the city and the state for quality and safety.

It should be clear that candidates not registered to vote should be disqualified.

The four-year terms in which one student can run for mayor should be extended. The city's history sex and disability discrimination.

Letters to the Editor

March 5 article reproves facts, according to detractor

Larry Iles

Kirkville Mayor Deborah Mott's abrupt resignation Monday came as a stunner to the city's citizens, but no one was more surprised than Mott herself. She was placed in the position to step down after the controversy surrounding her time as mayor.

By accepting the resignation, Mott made it clear she was unable to continue fulfilling her role as mayor of Kirkville. The city's reputation was at stake after questions emerged in the community about her leadership following the election. The city council intended to continue with the city's economics to complete her term.

In these circumstances, the decision to appoint Mott was the best decision for the city.

The initiatives to become more economically viable must be backed up with a strong leader. Kirkville residents should attend candidate forums before the election to fully understand the candidates' ideas and question them about crucial issues.

Students and residents must use their voices precisely this April, voting for candidates and residents' rights in the city and the state for quality and safety.

It should be clear that candidates not registered to vote should be disqualified.

The four-year terms in which one student can run for mayor should be extended. The city's history sex and disability discrimination.