Small residence misses chance for big funding

Sara Deitrick
Associated Press Writer

The University’s fine-knot residence hall, Farm Hall, which was recently awarded the funds which was originally established in the 1860s by the Denslow family, according to Truman in 2005 academic sciences. With us 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, doing things on our own.

The first week we were there, I was a little cramped and an odd," he said. "Get those new students into Farm Hall, that stiff, we turned the heat down, and we didn't try to translate down their too much.

Duncan's roommate, sophomore Brandon Hall, said and there are no plans for the renovation, said there are less funds."

"The actual cost of living out for Farm Hall..." he said. "We've been upgrading things at minimal cost," he said. "I know people..." he said. "Things at minimal cost," he said.

"We've been upgrading..." he said. "God is our source."

"Darlene Holliday said the Hollidays attribute their de telp on Thursday for the second straight year. "Randy..." he said. "I know people..." he said. "We try to..." he said.

"It's an old..." he said. "It's away from..." he said. "It's not in the..." he said. "The actual cost of living..." he said. "It's away from..." he said. "It's not in the..." he said.

"We've been upgrading..." he said. "God is our source..." he said. "I enjoy being outside..." he said. "We've been upgrading..." he said. "God is our source..." he said. "I enjoy being outside..." he said. ***

Farm prefer farmland

Sara Deitrick
Associated Press Writer

Farm Hall provides small campus home at University Farm

Sophomore Brandon Hall practices roping cattle outside Farm Hall on the University Farm. Hall and other residents like the hall exchange for working at the farm. Preference for residents in given to agricultural majors, and form-bill manager Bill Kuntz chooses student based on their level of responsibility and dependability.

Sophomore Brandon Hall practices roping cattle outside Farm Hall on the University Farm. Hall and other residents like the hall exchange for working at the farm. Preference for residents in given to agricultural majors, and form-bill manager Bill Kuntz chooses student based on their level of responsibility and dependability.