Senior Becky Dinsick hits a backhand during practice her sophomore year.

"Fatigue makes cowards of us all, and when players get tired, it's hard to make that extra effort," Sexton said.

"It was surprising," Sexton said, "I broke through for a couple outstanding performances during the first part of the match, which put the Bulls firmly ahead."

The players put their hearts into the game and had never played a match before Sept. 24. Goss, who had never played in the match, said the game took her by surprise with the level of performance from the new members of the team.

"It was a real motivating experience," Goss said.

"He broke through for a couple outstanding performances during the first part of the match, which put the Bulls firmly ahead," Sexton said. "It was surprising.""