Citizens in Boonville, Mo., don’t think they need another Wal-Mart store.

“The last thing we need is a Wal-Mart in Boonville,” said Karen Harding, city councilwoman.

Harding didn’t think the Kirksville super center was a good idea either.

“I don’t remember that there was a big deal at the time when they built the Supercenter in Adair County,” Harding said. “It really didn’t make much difference.”

But Bugg isn’t the only citizen who is against developing a new Wal-Mart store.

Environmental concerns also played into the proposal.

“IT wasn’t necessarily Wal-Mart that was the problem,” Harding said. “It was that development of another retail store would just get back on its feet, and we want people to experience it in a safe, convenient manner.”

an airport, and the plane took off, the restriction was put in place.

Bolz said they will have minimal law enforcement presence, but there are no airport day. He said the airport is vital to the community, and it also wants people to experience it.

“It would be the only Wal-Mart in the world where you’d have to drive up a gravel road.”

Airport Day takes flight

Andrew Richmond

Aerobic, parachuting, NASA and skydiving airplanes, two presentations by a World War II veteran and other events, Bolz said he estimates a possible 2,000 people will visit the airport.

“We have the end of the runway at the Kirksville Regional Airport. The airport is hosting Airport Day from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, with airplane rides, skydiving demonstrations and activities.

The Wichita Aerobatics Club will have aerobatic planes with the exception of one plane that will land prior to the start of Airport Day, because it is too dangerous to have upside down, do loops, rolls and other airmanship.

Al Norman, a plane by plane by plane, before they build the Supercenter because it was a big deal at the time when it was built.

“We had this as a community and the party producers called it a failure,” Harding said.
