Newman resets budget, blueprints

By CATIE DEAN Staff Reporter

Too soon a question Dick. Angele Phi Epsilon’s president called her patience thin. "We are still not doing enough to alter the Greek image, but these advertisements, I just don’t think it’s an adequate way to do it," said Angele Phi Epsilon’s president, Bettie Lesczynski.

Lesczynski said that situation is difficult for members because they can’t say what they want. "I think it’s a question of what you consider to be proper, and I think that’s a very difficult thing to say. I think it’s just up to the particular group of whom they decide to do." She said Sigma Chi is the associate professor of the Interfraternity Council.

"It’s a very specific group, so there might not be individuals with the same interests or the same opinions on the Greek system," she said. "I just don’t think that’s an adequate way to do it.

"I was disappointed in the shirts, that’s why I made the image of the overall of the Greek (CPK)," said Lesczynski.

"I just don’t think that’s an appropriate image for us," said Lesczynski.

"I was disappointed in the shirts, that’s why I made the image of the overall of the Greek (CPK)," said Lesczynski.

"I just don’t think that’s an appropriate image for us," said Lesczynski.

"I was disappointed in the shirts, that’s why I made the image of the overall of the Greek (CPK)," said Lesczynski.

"I just don’t think that’s an appropriate image for us," said Lesczynski.