Amusement case reviewed

BY JULIE WILLIAMS

Assistant News Editor

Safety is the buzzword at Truman.

In response to recent security issues on campus, campus safety officials have been working hard to increase overall security. The situation is not as urgent as recent news has made it seem, however, by the time he called, the accident had already been reported by an anonymous caller.

“[The University doesn’t have] a system in place for this right now,” the police officer said. “We couldn’t find the [smartphone].”

Fender damaged in campus hit-and-run

BY DIANE POLLOCK

Assistant News Editor

Jason Nguyen’s car bumper has come back from the body shop, but he doesn’t know when he will pick it up. Nguyen, a sophomore and resident assistant in Missouri Hall, has a question he wants answered: who damaged the bumper on his car and why?

“If someone caused it, who caused it?”

Nguyen said the Missouri Hall Director had already been replaced by an anonymous caller, who did not leave a message.

“It’s highly unlikely that the campus community on security should be re- thought and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office,” the police officer said.

He added that the campus community on security should be reassured and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office.

At the beginning of the year, it acquired the position he held as former ATSU president, a position he held for more than 10 years, according to the University of Missouri System.

Kilcrease’s lawyer, Andy Burris, said the charges of armed robbery and theft were dismissed because the victim, a student, did not want to pursue the case further. Kilcrease was also charged with second-degree assault, but this was not the case.

The MDC set the bond at $100,000 and ordered Kilcrease to appear in court on June 22. If convicted, Kilcrease could face up to 25 years in prison. He is scheduled to go to trial in September.

Questions abound in NIU shooting

Truman Counseling director cautions Prozac isn’t whole story

BY JESSIE GASCH

Managing Editor

For now, there really isn’t anything to say. It is too early to know for sure what goes on in Steven Kunsman’s head.

The president opened the last Thursday of the semester, campus is in a commotion between classes. But for Prozac, a potent and powerful drug, to work properly, it would have to be used in conjunction with other treatments, such as counseling or therapy.

“I don’t think there’s any other way that it could have been done,” she said.

Please see SHOOTER, Page 7

Copyright © 2008 Index www.trumanindex.com Volume 99, Issue 20

Assistant News Editor

Safety is the buzzword at Truman.

In response to recent security issues on campus, campus safety officials have been working hard to increase overall security. The situation is not as urgent as recent news has made it seem, however, by the time he called, the accident had already been reported by an anonymous caller.

“[The University doesn’t have] a system in place for this right now,” the police officer said. “We couldn’t find the [smartphone].”

Fender damaged in campus hit-and-run

BY DIANE POLLOCK

Assistant News Editor

Jason Nguyen’s car bumper has come back from the body shop, but he doesn’t know when he will pick it up. Nguyen, a sophomore and resident assistant in Missouri Hall, has a question he wants answered: who damaged the bumper on his car and why?

“If someone caused it, who caused it?”

Nguyen said the Missouri Hall Director had already been replaced by an anonymous caller, who did not leave a message.

“It’s highly unlikely that the campus community on security should be re- thought and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office,” the police officer said.

He added that the campus community on security should be reassured and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office.

At the beginning of the year, it acquired the position he held as former ATSU president, a position he held for more than 10 years, according to the University of Missouri System.

Kilcrease’s lawyer, Andy Burris, said the charges of armed robbery and theft were dismissed because the victim, a student, did not want to pursue the case further. Kilcrease was also charged with second-degree assault, but this was not the case.

The MDC set the bond at $100,000 and ordered Kilcrease to appear in court on June 22. If convicted, Kilcrease could face up to 25 years in prison. He is scheduled to go to trial in September.

Questions abound in NIU shooting

Truman Counseling director cautions Prozac isn’t whole story

BY JESSIE GASCH

Managing Editor

For now, there really isn’t anything to say. It is too early to know for sure what goes on in Steven Kunsman’s head.

The president opened the last Thursday of the semester, campus is in a commotion between classes. But for Prozac, a potent and powerful drug, to work properly, it would have to be used in conjunction with other treatments, such as counseling or therapy.

“I don’t think there’s any other way that it could have been done,” she said.

Please see SHOOTER, Page 7

Copyright © 2008 Index www.trumanindex.com Volume 99, Issue 20

Assistant News Editor

Safety is the buzzword at Truman.

In response to recent security issues on campus, campus safety officials have been working hard to increase overall security. The situation is not as urgent as recent news has made it seem, however, by the time he called, the accident had already been reported by an anonymous caller.

“[The University doesn’t have] a system in place for this right now,” the police officer said. “We couldn’t find the [smartphone].”

Fender damaged in campus hit-and-run

BY DIANE POLLOCK

Assistant News Editor

Jason Nguyen’s car bumper has come back from the body shop, but he doesn’t know when he will pick it up. Nguyen, a sophomore and resident assistant in Missouri Hall, has a question he wants answered: who damaged the bumper on his car and why?

“If someone caused it, who caused it?”

Nguyen said the Missouri Hall Director had already been replaced by an anonymous caller, who did not leave a message.

“It’s highly unlikely that the campus community on security should be re- thought and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office,” the police officer said.

He added that the campus community on security should be reassured and that they would be able to continue the work of our campus safety office.

At the beginning of the year, it acquired the position he held as former ATSU president, a position he held for more than 10 years, according to the University of Missouri System.

Kilcrease’s lawyer, Andy Burris, said the charges of armed robbery and theft were dismissed because the victim, a student, did not want to pursue the case further. Kilcrease was also charged with second-degree assault, but this was not the case.

The MDC set the bond at $100,000 and ordered Kilcrease to appear in court on June 22. If convicted, Kilcrease could face up to 25 years in prison. He is scheduled to go to trial in September.

Questions abound in NIU shooting

Truman Counseling director cautions Prozac isn’t whole story

BY JESSIE GASCH

Managing Editor

For now, there really isn’t anything to say. It is too early to know for sure what goes on in Steven Kunsman’s head.

The president opened the last Thursday of the semester, campus is in a commotion between classes. But for Prozac, a potent and powerful drug, to work properly, it would have to be used in conjunction with other treatments, such as counseling or therapy.

“I don’t think there’s any other way that it could have been done,” she said.

Please see SHOOTER, Page 7