The atmosphere in the Writing Center helps to teach us that some students have the misconceptions that the Writing Center is supposed to only involve faculty or writing consultants. However, Mark Hardy, vice director of the center of writing professionals, said that students who come to the center are the students who need it the most. "It's a great way for us to reach out to students who otherwise may not have come into the Writing Center," said Hardy.

Woehlk said that she believes the Writing Center is a place where students can go and feel comfortable. "The Writing Center is a place where students can go and feel comfortable," she said. "We try to create an environment where students can feel comfortable to come in and ask for help."