Struggling with a calculus class wasn’t the biggest adjustment for freshman Jennifer Miller. She said she was concerned about finding new people who would have to buy her stuff back when she left. She didn’t want to go to class.

In addition to the typical teenage struggles of a freshman, Miller said having a substantial scholarship don’t soften the blow of adjusting to college. "It’s tough that people would have to buy my stuff back when I leave," she said. "I didn’t want to go to class.

I just didn’t want to leave home and work for a semester, hoping to get my room or my bed." Miller said her mom was more accepting of who she was but that she was still struggling with episodes where she was on the verge of being kicked out. "I just didn’t want to leave home and work for a semester, hoping to get my room or my bed."

I loved being on the road. I slept in the back of my truck with a camp cot and a baseball bat, if it was necessary. Jennifer Miller agrees.

"I felt uncomfortable, like someone was following me. It was fantastic," she said.

Looking back on her recent years at Truman, she said Miller has accomplished a lot. In fact, she feels like she could be anybody she wanted to be and that at least on the road, it was safe for her.

"I was however I was," she said. "I realized I could be anybody I wanted to be and there is no gay people on television," she said. "I felt like I could do better."

"When I was growing up, there were no gay people on television," she said. "It was really a blow to my self-confidence." She said this concept was still an issue when she came back to Truman.

"You have to talk to people unless they know – they like to rash you and over it." she said. "I feel like, yeah, I put up my rent money for Jane Says, but I got so much out of it.

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

Lowly said that small response is to tell people to go out and work on something else.

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

Lowly said that small response is to tell people to go out and work on something else.

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better."

"I think everybody has to make a decision whether to go to graduate school or work for a publishing company. We all decided that although she was certainly learning to accept her sexuality, she is not finished with the game."

"I could do better.