Truman Week adds summer supplement

BY DONIE POLLARD
Assistant News Editor

First-year Truman students soon will have more opportunities to adjust to college life. Truman will implement a new first-year summer orientation day beginning summer 2008. Administration in the office of academic affairs will co-sponsor the mandatory, one-day event with the goal of aiding student’s adjustment to life at Truman, according to a press release from the office of academic affairs.

People don’t necessarily make the transition to college life,” said Martin Eisenberg, the provost of academic affairs and Dean of the Rockwell Center Program. “It’s an exciting process (for everyone involved), but it’s a new student’s approach to a first-year of college than what Truman is currently doing.”

Eisenberg said the new orientation day is part of a larger picture of a comprehensive first-year college experience that was recommended to the student life committee in spring 2006. Orientation aims to enhance the transition experience that was recommended to the university by the Liaison Group, a group of Truman alums.

With choosing Truman, a greater understanding of the school will be their ownership of college, socialization and ownership of education, teaching and academic orientation in the school.”

Please see WEEK, Page 7

Increased meth control might lead to crack infux

BY CHRISS BOXING
Assistant News Editor

Another drug has entered the revolving door of illegal substances in Adair County. Administrative enforcement agencies have noted a recent increase in methamphetamine, and local law enforcement community to eliminate the local manufacturing of methamphetamine.

Some school districts have been offered a chance to win a $50K lottery, which will be used to support a new laboratory. The lab will be used to test for various illegal substances. People are being asked to support this program by writing letters to their legislators. One such letter was written by Lee Boblin, director of student life.

We use [the SWAT team] on a lot of times when you have drugs, you have weapons involved,” King said. “In this case, we have both.

The new lighting aids this cause because it creates more access to the facility for fans, and the new parking lot will be available to the fans for free. The new parking lot will be available to the fans for free.

Please see LIGHTS, Page 7

Lights at Stokes Stadium

Stokes lighting cost students extra $50K

BY DONIE BRIDGEL Staff Writer

Missouri has finally found a way to give teachers more money.

The Missouri Teaching Incentive Program, which was enacted in 2005, created the Missouri Teaching and Retention Incentive Program. “It’s an evolving process. We’re continually looking at a more holistic approach to a first-year of college than what Truman is currently doing.”

Eisenberg said the new orientation day is part of a larger picture of a comprehensive first-year college experience that was recommended to the student life committee in spring 2006. Orientation aims to enhance the transition experience that was recommended to the university by the Liaison Group, a group of Truman alums.

With choosing Truman, a greater understanding of the school will be their ownership of college, socialization and ownership of education, teaching and academic orientation in the school.”

Please see WEEK, Page 7

Increased meth control might lead to crack infux

BY CHRISS BOXING
Assistant News Editor

Another drug has entered the revolving door of illegal substances in Adair County. Administrative enforcement agencies have noted a recent increase in methamphetamine, and local law enforcement community to eliminate the local manufacturing of methamphetamine.

Some school districts have been offered a chance to win a $50K lottery, which will be used to support a new laboratory. The lab will be used to test for various illegal substances. People are being asked to support this program by writing letters to their legislators. One such letter was written by Lee Boblin, director of student life.

We use [the SWAT team] on a lot of times when you have drugs, you have weapons involved,” King said. “In this case, we have both.

The new lighting aids this cause because it creates more access to the facility for fans, and the new parking lot will be available to the fans for free. The new parking lot will be available to the fans for free.

Please see LIGHTS, Page 7

Lights at Stokes Stadium

Stokes lighting cost students extra $50K

BY DONIE BRIDGEL Staff Writer

Missouri has finally found a way to give teachers more money.

The Missouri Teaching Incentive Program, which was enacted in 2005, created the Missouri Teaching and Retention Incentive Program. “It’s an evolving process. We’re continually looking at a more holistic approach to a first-year of college than what Truman is currently doing.”

Eisenberg said the new orientation day is part of a larger picture of a comprehensive first-year college experience that was recommended to the student life committee in spring 2006. Orientation aims to enhance the transition experience that was recommended to the university by the Liaison Group, a group of Truman alums.

With choosing Truman, a greater understanding of the school will be their ownership of college, socialization and ownership of education, teaching and academic orientation in the school.”

Please see WEEK, Page 7

Increased meth control might lead to crack infux

BY CHRISS BOXING
Assistant News Editor

Another drug has entered the revolving door of illegal substances in Adair County. Administrative enforcement agencies have noted a recent increase in methamphetamine, and local law enforcement community to eliminate the local manufacturing of methamphetamine.

Some school districts have been offered a chance to win a $50K lottery, which will be used to support a new laboratory. The lab will be used to test for various illegal substances. People are being asked to support this program by writing letters to their legislators. One such letter was written by Lee Boblin, director of student life.

We use [the SWAT team] on a lot of times when you have drugs, you have weapons involved,” King said. “In this case, we have both.

The new lighting aids this cause because it creates more access to the facility for fans, and the new parking lot will be available to the fans for free. The new parking lot will be available to the fans for free.

Please see LIGHTS, Page 7

Lights at Stokes Stadium

Stokes lighting cost students extra $50K

BY DONIE BRIDGEL Staff Writer

Missouri has finally found a way to give teachers more money.

The Missouri Teaching Incentive Program, which was enacted in 2005, created the Missouri Teaching and Retention Incentive Program. “It’s an evolving process. We’re continually looking at a more holistic approach to a first-year of college than what Truman is currently doing.”

Eisenberg said the new orientation day is part of a larger picture of a comprehensive first-year college experience that was recommended to the student life committee in spring 2006. Orientation aims to enhance the transition experience that was recommended to the university by the Liaison Group, a group of Truman alums.

With choosing Truman, a greater understanding of the school will be their ownership of college, socialization and ownership of education, teaching and academic orientation in the school.”

Please see WEEK, Page 7

Increased meth control might lead to crack infux

BY CHRISS BOXING
Assistant News Editor

Another drug has entered the revolving door of illegal substances in Adair County. Administrative enforcement agencies have noted a recent increase in methamphetamine, and local law enforcement community to eliminate the local manufacturing of methamphetamine.

Some school districts have been offered a chance to win a $50K lottery, which will be used to support a new laboratory. The lab will be used to test for various illegal substances. People are being asked to support this program by writing letters to their legislators. One such letter was written by Lee Boblin, director of student life.

We use [the SWAT team] on a lot of times when you have drugs, you have weapons involved,” King said. “In this case, we have both.

The new lighting aids this cause because it creates more access to the facility for fans, and the new parking lot will be available to the fans for free. The new parking lot will be available to the fans for free.

Please see LIGHTS, Page 7

Lights at Stokes Stadium

Stokes lighting cost students extra $50K

BY DONIE BRIDGEL Staff Writer

Missouri has finally found a way to give teachers more money.

The Missouri Teaching Incentive Program, which was enacted in 2005, created the Missouri Teaching and Retention Incentive Program. “It’s an evolving process. We’re continually looking at a more holistic approach to a first-year of college than what Truman is currently doing.”

Eisenberg said the new orientation day is part of a larger picture of a comprehensive first-year college experience that was recommended to the student life committee in spring 2006. Orientation aims to enhance the transition experience that was recommended to the university by the Liaison Group, a group of Truman alums.

With choosing Truman, a greater understanding of the school will be their ownership of college, socialization and ownership of education, teaching and academic orientation in the school.”

Please see WEEK, Page 7

Increased meth control might lead to crack infux

BY CHRISS BOXING
Assistant News Editor

Another drug has entered the revolving door of illegal substances in Adair County. Administrative enforcement agencies have noted a recent increase in methamphetamine, and local law enforcement community to eliminate the local manufacturing of methamphetamine.

Some school districts have been offered a chance to win a $50K lottery, which will be used to support a new laboratory. The lab will be used to test for various illegal substances. People are being asked to support this program by writing letters to their legislators. One such letter was written by Lee Boblin, director of student life.

We use [the SWAT team] on a lot of times when you have drugs, you have weapons involved,” King said. “In this case, we have both.

The new lighting aids this cause because it creates more access to the facility for fans, and the new parking lot will be available to the fans for free. The new parking lot will be available to the fans for free.