Students research effects of throat singing on the body

BY KRISTIN HALUSZCZAK

“It’s kind of like your voice is capable of doing, and I just thought it was a good glimpse of another culture.”

Kendall Mooney

“I thought that was really interesting, and I kind of liked his blues and jazz type of music so I got kind of interested in [throat singing] as well.”

Mike Wally

“You know when you do it because it feels good.”

Mike Wally

“I really never got a whole lot of information on it before, so I was excited. I was excited to see how it would work out and see what the effects were.”

Mike Wally

“You know, [getting] excited about learning something new.”

Senior Mike Urlakis

Every year, everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to. Everyone has to sing, even if they don’t want to.
