Go green to win green!

What does “Go Green” mean to you?
Paint a trashcan to represent your Go Green views. Be as creative as you can be! Do what you feel necessary to make your statement heard and some money while you’re at it!

Rules:
1. Cash Prizes: can be any size
2. Submit trashcan and entry form by 10/30am on Thursday, November 15th to the SUB Georgian Room A
3. The top 10 entries will be displayed in a selected area of the campus
4. Groups or individuals may enter more than one trashcan, but no repeat content will result in immediate disqualification

For more information or to download an entry form, go to http://site.truman.edu/home

City adds cell phones to notification system

BY AMANDA GOSLER
staff reporter

The City of Kirksville is installing a new system by providing residents the option of emergency notification methods. The city plans to phone all residents in the area through a call- centric notification system, in case of fires, floods and other natural disasters.

Kirksville City Manager Randy Behrens and Adair County residents are excited for this new technology to be added to the city.

The city is currently distributing phones through a grant and then making calls to each resident.

Adair County residents are excited to be the part of the system.

Interested Adair County residents have the option of calling the numbers on the phones they actually own, or phone numbers of family members who do not have cell phones.

Dependent upon the type of emergency that is being assessed, the city will be able to notify certain areas of the county.

For Jagger, one of the most prominent benefits of the system is the ability for the city to contact people in a certain area who otherwise would not be reached.

Deer rifle season begins Saturday

BY BLAISE HART-SCHWARTZ
staff reporter

Kirksville residents are gearing up and heading out for the start of hunting season. This fall season begins on Saturday, October 24, 2009. Adair County Fire Department Supervisors have been receiving inquiries from the community about what to do when you see a deer rifle.

Director of the Missouri Department of Conservation, Ray Jagger, Rural Fire Representative for the City of Kirksville, said his business gets busier during hunting season.

Jagger said that he enjoys every part of the sport.

“Deer hunting is part of the sport. I’m excited to be hunting. I’ve been hunting for 10 years. I’m excited to hunt. I’m excited to be hunting and hunting for deer. It’s a good time, unless you miss a deer,” Koch said.

“I do whatever. It also just is a part of the sport. … I do whatever. I go deer hunting, I go turkey hunting, I go pheasant hunting, I go waterfowl hunting,” Koch said.

Koch said he has been hunting since he was 13 years old. This season he was looking to take his first buck.

If hunters are unsure of what to do with the leftover meat, there are options to consider. “It’s a good idea to wear blaze orange, that way people don’t mistake them for deer,” Nagel said.

There are only two hunting methods allowed in Missouri: archery and bow.

By Amanda Gouer, staff reporter

Hunting Harvest

Adair County Fire Department has launched All Fire low during bow season.

If the county permits, hunters are allowed to take as many antlered deer as they need. The only restrictions are weather, hazardous material, possibly a man hunt, or you don’t mistake them for deer,” Nagel said.

If the county permits, hunters are allowed to take as many antlered deer as they need. The only restrictions are weather, hazardous material, possibly a man hunt, or you don’t mistake them for deer,” Nagel said.

If the county permits, hunters are allowed to take as many antlered deer as they need. The only restrictions are weather, hazardous material, possibly a man hunt, or you don’t mistake them for deer,” Nagel said.

If the county permits, hunters are allowed to take as many antlered deer as they need. The only restrictions are weather, hazardous material, possibly a man hunt, or you don’t mistake them for deer,” Nagel said.