Hamlet 2 rooks theater with laughs

Indie band proves talent

BY COMINNIE SCHWARTZ

The Bridgeland indie rock group Varn- eek Weekend (right to left) Christopher Tomaro, Ezra Koenig, Robustam Bekaieff formed Wednesday, Sept. 10 at the Pageant in St. Louis.

Before Vampire Weekend could take the stage, however, opening act Silly William’s played a short, six-song set. The band seemed bored by its own music and the playful banter between tracks was sorely missed.

Feldstein (Amy Poehler), they died after 96 minutes with a tidy wrap up in a major career.

According to the Boston Globe, the band members stuck to their roots, playing at least 10 songs from their debut CD, "Vampire Weekend." The band also

The songs were indistinguishable from one another — the first track

CIA analyst Osborne Cox — played by a disc

comic moments over a coherent storyline.

screwball comedy

And here we have it: the inevitable screwball masterpiece that won the Coens their most recent award for "No Country for Old Men" will be turned off by such a character. Fans of Woody Allen’s favorite, "The

The movie’s script is a rather predictable story of a drama teacher who tries to inspire his students while saving the drama department of the school.

The INDEX is hiring and we want you!

News Reporters
Features Reporters
Sports Reporters
Copy Editors
Photographers
Designers
Columnists
Circulation Manager

Jobs can be work-study, scholarship or paid. Applications are available in the Index office, located at 1200 Barnett Hall. If you have questions, call 660-785-4449 or e-mail index@truman.edu.