Krueger to replace Dixon

Former Winona State President, Truman
official named interim

Those familiar with the University budget might call it a “drop in the bucket,” but some students still want to know where an extra $125,000 came from.

The University announced that Darrell Krueger will serve for his year-long position, beginning Oct. 16. Dixon will receive $205,050 — the equivalent of her current yearly presidential salary — to serve as CEO of the Board of Governors until Oct. 16. The $125,000 that Krueger will receive for this two-year term will go to the Board.

“I love the community, and I love Truman,” Krueger said.
“I was just so honored to be able to come back out and for some reason to serve on behalf of the students and my children.
And my daughter-in-law.”

A dozen cases of chicken pox have appeared campus this month, but the number still falls short of what is considered an outbreak.

Christina Davis, coordinator of nursing serdices at the Student Health Center, said four cason campus this month, but the number still falls short of what is considered an outbreak.

Davis said the center will follow the Adair County Health Department's recommendations on how to proceed with that outbreak, Davis said the health center informed all students who might have been exposed to chicken pox she can remember at Truman was three years ago and that only one case was reported.
