As the Dean of Student Affairs, Lou Ann Gilchrist might well bear the scars of the Devil. She is one of the driving forces behind the Truman community.

Gilchrist grew up in South Dakota and graduated from William Jewell College with her B.A. She later attended the University of Northern Colorado where she received her master’s degree in Counseling psychology.

She has been a part of the Truman faculty for more than 25 years, working with the Student Counseling Services before taking over various leadership roles.

As part of her present job, Gilchrist also works closely with the Office of Residential Life and the Student Activities Board, while also assisting with the Truman Leadership Scholars program, academic and leadership scholarship given to qualified students.

Gilchrist said her days during the school year are filled with surprises that make the day-to-day responsibilities of running a college more challenging.

"I try to consult with them on major decisions and in the areas where I can co-op in student issues," she said.

"I think Truman students are the cream of the crop," she said. "They're bright, they're generally pretty well-behaved, they're generally pretty responsible."

Gilchrist said she likes the opportunities for personal growth that are inherent in the college environment. "We are in a place where we are able to spend a lot of time close to home and yet still have the opportunity for great opportunity of learning from leaving the college campus and becoming an environmental college," she said.

Gilchrist also said that as an incoming freshman, students must work to find their own personal growth opportunities that may not already have had or may not get in their particular academic experience. "We've got,"

"I think there's a lot to about the college environment," Gilchrist said. "It's not just the academics. I think there's a lot of personal development potential in the social environment.""}

Clothoisms for “Mr. Right Now” rather than “Mr. Right”

I spend all summer trying to figure out who “Mr. Right” is. I have my column. It’s now less than 24 hours before deadline, and I’m finally typing. My new approach to dating will be to have a one-time-only relationship with someone who strikes my fancy I intend to take away. That’s why I want to be Mr. Right.

"It's not just the excitement of having a whole new relationship with their significant other. Thus, I decided to give people two options: a future relationship with their significant other or the exciting of having a whole new relationship with their significant other. Thus, I decided to give people two options: a future relationship with their significant other or the new person they meet.
