Survey reports satisfaction

TRUman students say they’re satisfied with their social lives, their education, the environment and their living situation. However, many students feel they have a great sense of how Truman is, that they have a good feel for the quality of life at Truman and that they have a good sense of how Truman is at a glance.

“I think it is our job to make sure that Truman students are having a great time,” said Justin Collins, half of West Campus Suites, said.

Morin said the students enrolled at Truman are exposed to a wide variety of things that have helped them learn and grow. In addition to the classroom and in the student recreation center, Truman students have access to a wide range of opportunities. Students can participate in a variety of activities and clubs, and in most cases, they have a great sense of how Truman is at a glance.

Templeton said the admissions department has a strong sense of how Truman is at a glance.

Seniors’ perception about high academic standards was very high. Templeton said the admissions department is currently working with publications and admissions to create a new Web site for Truman. Templeton said that a few students might think Truman is too hard for them and they are discouraged from coming, but the University is working to eliminate that fear.

Seniors said they were satisfied with their social lives. Templeton said that potential students can get a better idea about Truman and Kirksville on the Truman Facebook page.
