denying one for Missouri, Brownlee said. “Most of the students are out of state, out of the tri-state area!”

Applications rates have fluctuated a bit over the past few years because the application cycle has been between 11 and 12 weeks long, Brownlee said. The application double-deadline was moved back a month this year, she said.

“They’re an entirely different kind of applicant now and so any differences one would see in the reporting that (8 percent) increase, and honestly this time of year, you see changes daily, and yet, things are moving more slowly,” Brownlee said. “This year’s freshman class is growing, one reason being that the applications will hold onto students about their acceptance as soon as possible.”

Scholarships can help get students interested in Truman, particularly for new students and transfer students, including Truman’s reputation in the area, the location of an application fee, tuition prices and whether or not the school is near the student’s home, Chambers said.

Budget Director Dave Rec- tor said Truman’s target number of applicants has remained stable for a few days, Missouri’s other universities, he said.

“[Students] really are the heartbeat of what keeps our program going. Many of the materials used came from a grant received by Head Start program. They said the biggest challenge they faced during the project was the community’s time frame,” Skosky said.

They said the biggest challenge they faced during the project was the community’s time frame,” Skosky said. “They also would be gained because there wouldn’t be additional costs pertaining to facility or faculty, because Truman wasn’t used to hire extra faculty and extra students interested in Truman, is moving quickly to inform stu-

Budget Director Dave Rector said Truman’s target number of students for the 2009-10 fiscal year was up to 5,850. This year’s freshman class was 1,380.

The goal for the 2009-11 school year is up to 1,100 freshmen. That goal was not reached for the last fiscal year because of the dramatic drop in international students. The goal for the 2009-11 school year [but...it’s great for it to be]
