Zombieland kills with laughter

Rule No. 1 for surviving the zombie apocalypse is to keep a cool head, or you might find yourself eating a lovely, lukewarm brain. Zombieland' actually replaces that with: never give up, don't give in and always stay calm and confident. Rule No. 2 is that your dreams of the undead are just about as likely to come true as you are to find a partner under the hood of your car.

The story is set in a Florida high school, where every student is a zombie. In the wake of the apocalypse, a group of four high school students gains the power to defeat the undead, and sets out to complete their high school agenda. The humor and witty dialogue are some of the best parts of the film, with a lot of self-awareness and a lot of heart.

The film is directed by Ruben Fleischer and written by Rhett Reese and Paul Wernick. The film stars Jesse Eisenberg, Emma Stone, Woody Harrelson, and Andrew Garfield. The film is a combination of action, comedy, and horror.

Zombieland' is about a high school student's survival plan during the zombie apocalypse. The film is rated R for strong graphic violence throughout, some sex-related material, and language.

The film is a fun and action-packed film, with a lot of humor and heart. It is a great film for fans of horror and action.

Fictional band releases album

BY COREY BOMMEL

This week's most all about guilty pleasures — Paramore, the pop-punk rock band from Franklin, Tenn., has released their latest album, "Brand New Eyes." The album features nine tracks, including the singles "Misery Business" and "Misery," which were both released as promotional singles.

The album has received mixed reviews from critics, with some praising the band's return to form and others calling it a departure from their previous work.

Paramore is a band that has been around for a long time, and with this album, they prove that they are still relevant and capable of creating music that resonates with their fans.

Glee offers cuteness

BY NICK FRASER

Reviewer

The show is the story of a high school student named Blaine, who is an outcast and has a crush on the popular student Kurt. When Kurt is transferred to another school, Blaine is left to cope with his feelings alone. His world is turned upside down when he meets Rachel, a girl who is also an outcast, and the two decide to form a club to raise money for charity.

The show is a blend of comedy and drama, with a focus on the relationships between the characters. The music is another highlight, with covers of popular songs and original tracks.

The show has received positive reviews, with critics praising the writing, acting, and music. The show has also been praised for its portrayal of LGBTQ characters and issues.
