One of the best things about living in the great state of Missouri is the ability to voice our opinions and choose the leaders who represent us. We do this through our elected officials, by voting in elections, or through our citizen initiatives. It is important for citizens to understand the process and how they can become part of it.

Too often we see citizens becoming frustrated with the political process and feel like their voices are not being heard. This is why it is so important to have a voice in the democratic process. We can make a difference by getting involved in our communities and our state.

Missouri City to choose to enact an earnings tax. It takes up 33% and 44% of their budgets, so many opportunities to make decisions such as this to be placed on the electorate. We vote on amendments and resolutions, and in many ways, the ability to influence how we are taxed. If we pass, Proposition A would allow all the voters to decide whether we want to tax on earnings or not. The citizens of the city would then be able to decide how much of the income tax would be levied. This would be only a matter of making a decision on how much of their income tax would be paid.

If citizens think they need to tax themselves, they will do it. If they think they don't need to tax themselves, they won't. That's why it's important for citizens to be involved in the decision-making process. We don't support Proposition A. It places rural Missouri city to choose to enact an earnings tax. But we, as citizens, have the chance to decide its own stance on taxes if we'd actually had a hand in making the decision. We vote on amendments and resolutions, and in many ways, the ability to influence how we are taxed. If we pass, Proposition A would allow all the voters to decide whether we want to tax on earnings or not. The citizens of the city would then be able to decide how much of the income tax would be levied. This would be only a matter of making a decision on how much of their income tax would be paid.

If citizens think they need to tax themselves, they will do it. If they think they don't need to tax themselves, they won't. That's why it's important for citizens to be involved in the decision-making process. We don't support Proposition A. It places rural Missouri city to choose to enact an earnings tax. But we, as citizens, have the chance to decide its own stance on taxes if we'd actually had a hand in making the decision. We vote on amendments and resolutions, and in many ways, the ability to influence how we are taxed. If we pass, Proposition A would allow all the voters to decide whether we want to tax on earnings or not. The citizens of the city would then be able to decide how much of the income tax would be levied. This would be only a matter of making a decision on how much of their income tax would be paid.

If citizens think they need to tax themselves, they will do it. If they think they don't need to tax themselves, they won't. That's why it's important for citizens to be involved in the decision-making process. We don't support Proposition A. It places rural Missouri city to choose to enact an earnings tax. But we, as citizens, have the chance to decide its own stance on taxes if we'd actually had a hand in making the decision. We vote on amendments and resolutions, and in many ways, the ability to influence how we are taxed. If we pass, Proposition A would allow all the voters to decide whether we want to tax on earnings or not. The citizens of the city would then be able to decide how much of the income tax would be levied. This would be only a matter of making a decision on how much of their income tax would be paid.