NEWS IN BRIEF

Students awarded National Science Foundation fellowship

Seniors Erin Farmer and Tyler Young were awarded the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship.

Farmer is a biology major from Arma, Kan. She said she plans to attend the University of Kansas to research molecular biology. Young is a computer science major from Kearney, Mo. He said he plans to defer graduate school at this time.

This year, more than 13,000 students applied for the fellowship and 2,000 were awarded fellowships.

DPS reminds students about cycling policies

Truman State's Department of Public Safety reminds students that bicycles must obey the same traffic rules as cars and motorcycles while on the road. Bicycles must be locked to bicycle racks and any bicycles found parked illegally are subject to parking tickets and confiscation.

DPS recommends students register their bikes to make recovery easier if their bike is stolen. For more information, contact the Department of Public Safety at 660-785-4177.

Salvation Army now accepting debit and credit cards

The Kirksville Salvation Army now is accepting debit and credit cards at its thrift shop at 420 S. Baltimore Street. Salvation Army thrift store manager Connie Maxey said accepting cards will make it easier for college students to buy from the store. She said she hopes it will allow customers to purchase more merchandise.

Baseball scoreboard suffers electrical malfunction

An electrical surge damaged the scoreboard for the University baseball field last Thursday.

Baseball head coach Dan Davis said the scoreboard was malfunctioning after the storm that night, but wasn't sure exactly what caused the damage. Assistant Athletics Director Kevin White said Truman State electricians have begun replacing damaged parts and the scoreboard should be ready for use before Truman hosts another home game.

Seniors receive opportunity to give back

The Office of Advancement is sponsoring a senior giving campaign.

Graduating seniors are encouraged to donate $20 to the Truman State Foundation.

Any student who donates to the foundation is invited to attend the "Party with T-Pain" May 6 in the Student Union Building.

Students can decide where to allocate their donation. Choices include scholarship funds, athletics and academic department scholarships. A list of the different funds can be found at giving.truman.edu.

For more information, visit alumni.truman.edu or call 660-785-4133.

Explosive chemicals found on campus

1991

Members of the Jefferson City Bomb Squad were called to remove possibly dangerous chemicals from Science Hall, now Magruder Hall. Maria Di Stefano, former Science Department head, said a container of picric acid was found to be improperly stored in a storage room and left to dry. Dried picric acid is explosive, but Di Stefano said there was no possibility of students being harmed.
