With their first outdoor meet finished, Truman State's men's and women's track teams finished fourth out of 31 teams.

The meet yielded personal bests for many players, including sophomore Dominic Kacich. Kacich had two second place finishes, which included a second place out of 117 runners during the 200 meters, and finished with a time of 21.59 seconds, .14 seconds off the NCAA provisional time. Kacich also finished second out of 95 runners during the 400 meter.

The women also had a strong showing, with a second and third place finish by sophomore Emma Burditt and senior Katie Hirsch during the steeplechase. Burditt's 11:14.40 time during the steeplechase was an NCAA provisional time. Freshman Nicole Neville placed second in the 400 meter, and ran the third leg of the third place 4 by 100 meter as well as the first leg of the fifth place 4 by 400 meter.

Both teams are coming off a good first indoor season in the GLVC, with the men finishing seventh during the conference and women finishing third.

Senior Matt Schaefer said he is optimistic about the outdoor season, viewing the team as better suited to the outdoors. The team is looking forward to finishing even higher during outdoor season.

Schaefer said the biggest difference between outdoor to indoor track, especially with mid-and short distance runners is the number of teams. Indoor track has more teams than the team is used to, he said.

For the men, things are looking positive after finishing seventh during indoor. They are looking to make a push for a top spot in outdoor.

The women finished third in indoor in the new GLVC, surprising some people during their first year. The women look to take the momentum from their indoor season into the outdoor meets.

"There are more events for people to specialize in," Hirsch said.

Hirsch said despite their good showing at indoor events, she enjoys outdoor a little more.

"You're not running as many laps," Hirsch said.

She said she also loves having the chance to run the steeplechase.

The men's and women's teams have a balance between freshman and senior leadership. Seniors like Schaefer and Hirsch ran their last indoor meet at the GLVC championships on Feb. 28 in Indianapolis. After the meet, the teams were recognized and Schaefer described it as togetherness.

The other half of that balanced team includes young runners like Kacich and Neville. Both had a strong outing during the first meet of the season, which was Neville's first outdoor meet of her career.

The teams look to build on their fourth place finish from this weekend. Their next meet is the Central Methodist Invitational in Fayette, Mo., April 5. But their big goal is to get ready for the GLVC Outdoor Championships May 2 in Romeoville, Ill.

The men finished fourth out of 33 teams and the women finished fourth out of the 28 teams that competed.
