Strange Encounters

Ten candidates will run for the position of dean of the College of Business and Marketing Law, Chair of the Executive Committee.

Sandra Fleak said President Barbara Kroncke of Brookfield, Wis., posted for $10,000, which was the wrong substance to use. "I would say that Travis was a quiet kind of magnetic person who really is true that everybody loved him and he did every-thing to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chair- woman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandra Fleak, chairwoman of the search committee.

"He was probably as closely involved with the international community as he was with the local community," Schisler said. "He sort of cast a broad circle on the international students that any other person could. He's without a doubt, he was a very lively person and he had a very active appeal to be in good fun and enjoyment and fulfilling activities." As a history major, Schisler reminisced about what it was like to live in a tent in Alaska. "And then he decided halfway to southeast," Schisler said. "I think he decided that southeast was the right direction for him, so he went north instead of south." Schisler described the senior Dan co's roommate, Travis Turco, of Rolla, Mo., "Best I can tell — stimulating thing to me. Travis had a way about him that really is true that everybody loved him and he did everything to sort of play out in this way, but it was actually a very normal-thing for him to do that," said Sandy Flo-upcoming cuts as high as 12 percent for the universities to prepare for budget year, Gregory Fitch, commissioner the State speech Jan. 11. Late last dation for a 2 percent increase in about $800,000 more in state appro-serve again.

citizens must elect Newton to will remain a councilwoman

bers, but this is voted by the new council after on the City Council. One of have

Council

Barbara Dixon

and joined the council for another term. Mayor pro tem Tim

Blunt announced his recommen-

gov. Matt Blunt’s recommen-

Rowe still

Candidate Dale Blesz

“I respect the evil prevails, candidate for elections. Kevin said she has grown up in “cowans show Alm

time is up.

Creek Concerned Citizens

Blesz has been an associate

Blesz’s main goal is to continue jobs to the community that in-

He has lived in

“He said he plans to start

He said he plans to start

reached for comment.

Cord said.

She said her father, Dr. Jesse

He said he does not

He was born in

He said he plans to start

“we would have a say in the community.

“I would like to be the voice of what’s right,” Rodgers said.

“We said that we want to do something, and this applies to government too.”

as a member of the National Federation of the Blind to

“The more I learned, the more I realized how wonderful

Barbara Dixon

But the governor must use funds this year rather than in previous years

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

“The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

“The more I learned, the more I realized how wonderful

Barbara Dixon

“we should use funds this year rather than in previous years

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,

The governor made recommendations to the Board of Higher Edu-

most and said that possibly the new

analysts and said that analysts

The grant will fund all expenses involving tuition,
Local entrepreneur Louie Keen says he is in the process of renovating the Traveler’s Hotel in Kirksville, a hotel which first opened in 1930 and has been closed since last year.

Keen assumed ownership of the Traveler’s Hotel on Jan. 3 and quickly began renovations. “Traveler’s was in need of someone who had the resources and the vision to see the potential,” Keen said. He said he plans to turn the hotel, which first opened in 1932, into an upscale hotel of community activity.

Plans for the hotel, he said, include a library, a hotel lobby, and conference rooms, as that meeting place for local teams.

Local entrepreneur Louie Keen continues to expand his downtown properties. Keen, who operated a travel store, has closed a real estate, located in the business district of downtown Kirksville, purchasing three downtown properties and will help bring more business and apparel shops, respectively.

Keen said he hopes to have 100 employees working at the hotel by 2010. In addition to a renovated lobby and café, Keen said he hopes to have 100 businesses operating at the hotel Jan. 3 and quickly began renovations. “We want the downtown to have a mall-quality,” Keen said.

A room on the third floor of the Traveler’s Hotel sits in a state of disrepair earlier this week. Local entrepreneur Louie Keen assumed ownership of the hotel Jan. 3 and quickly began renovations. "I beg of them to please come to Kirksville," Keen said. "I just got to make it fun."
INDEX

Bournemouth University’s director of institutional planning, Dave Rector, the Index chose to reserve its judgment. Blunt deserves our votes because her policies reflect a step in the right direction.

Letters to the Editor

Potential budget cuts should start with presidential salaries.

Students need to learn better time priorities.

American post-Civil War USA non-fundamentalist feminist teachings.
Shannan Anderson is an veteran communications and English from Los Feliz, L.A.

Joel Andersen...[Running into a professor off campus, or even at the Student Recreation Center, can be an awkward experience for all parties involved."

New-age moreso show a blatant disregard for the safety of others and act as though utter disregard for the basic right everyone has to an unconquered...enjoying experience.

Joel Andersen is a junior English and religious studies major from...
Board approves zoning changes

If passed, proposed changes would allow adult businesses in certain areas of Kirksville.

Airport to tap into Kirksville water lines

Crews continue work on 4.7-mile-long main to provide Kirksville Regional Airport with water while construction widens highway to four lanes

Reflections 2000

- Hair
- Nails
- Tanning

- Dory
- Jacki
- Lyndsey

- Charlene
- Debbie
- Amber

- 304 S. Franklin Street
  Suite 500
  Kirksville, Mo. 63501
  (660) 665-7475

May and August leases available.

One-, two-, and three-bedroom units.

Call Heritage House Realty, Inc. at 660-665-5638 for more information.
Continued from Page 1

Student athletes face possible sentences of 10 to 30 years if found guilty of beating a third student, a former member of the Truman football team, during an off-campus altercation in late December, according to a university spokesman.

“The incident was an off-campus altercation between two individuals who are both student athletes,” said George Kilcrease, director of media relations. “Both individuals have been suspended from all university activities pending the conclusion of the individual cases.

“The university takes incidents of this nature very seriously,” said Kilcrease. "We are working with local law enforcement to ensure a fair and just resolution of this matter.

The college has suspended the two athletes involved in the incident, and a third former football player who was seen helping one of the men.

“This is a very unfortunate situation for all involved, including the students, the university community, and our student athletes,” said Kilcrease. "We will continue to cooperate with law enforcement as they investigate this matter.

The suspension of the athletes is effective immediately, and their participation in all university activities is prohibited until further notice.

The university will not provide any further comment on this matter at this time, other than to say that our primary concern is for the safety and well-being of all involved.

Continued from Page 1

“Sometimes guys be- he son, said. "I've watched him on the field and said he has experi- ence in this area.

He said that he was not just part of Truman's football team, but also part of the community and the surrounding area.

Members of the audience also asked Kroncke about his plans on in- tegrating between deans and the classroom of new Truman students.

He said there would be many new opportunities for students to get involved and get to know other people.

In the end, that's what will happen, he said.

As for how long he ex- pected his time at Truman before he left.

The amount of time he would expect to stay long at Truman, Kroncke said, would depend on a number of factors.

He also said that the university would use this incident as a way to educate people about the importance of understanding and appreciating others.

As for how long he ex- pected his time at Truman before he left.

The amount of time he would expect to stay long at Truman, Kroncke said, would depend on a number of factors.

He also said that the university would use this incident as a way to educate people about the importance of understanding and appreciating others.

As for how long he ex- pected his time at Truman before he left.

The amount of time he would expect to stay long at Truman, Kroncke said, would depend on a number of factors.

He also said that the university would use this incident as a way to educate people about the importance of understanding and appreciating others.

As for how long he ex- pected his time at Truman before he left.

The amount of time he would expect to stay long at Truman, Kroncke said, would depend on a number of factors.

He also said that the university would use this incident as a way to educate people about the importance of understanding and appreciating others.

As for how long he ex- pected his time at Truman before he left.

The amount of time he would expect to stay long at Truman, Kroncke said, would depend on a number of factors.

He also said that the university would use this incident as a way to educate people about the importance of understanding and appreciating others.
Residents to vote on raised recreation tax

Fund increase would go toward park renovations, lighted athletic fields and various city improvements

Grace Matte

The Kirksville Tribune

Kirkville’s sales tax increase might take a quarter of a percent in an effort to enhance local recreation.

“People keep asking for things, and we don’t have the money, so we need to go where we can to get it,” Mayor Martha Rowe said.

According to Macomber, if the parks sales tax increases from 7.475 percent to the proposed 7.725 percent, projects such as lighted soccer and baseball fields, hiking trails, improvements to the pool with dirt and other community facilities could make way.

“The council decided not to raise the sales tax last year, so this is an opportunity to do so,” Rowe said.

Michael said the city has not been able to make recreational improvements in about 30 years, since the installation of Rotary Park, formerly known as Swimming Pool Park.

She also said that although the City Council of the early 1990s proposed lighting the athletic fields, the lighted soccer and baseball fields never happened because of the lack of finances.

“Most of the recreational bud- get is donated by private parties,” Cupelli said.

Rowe said she has heard many times that the city cannot do anything until more money is available.

She also said she has a good understanding of what is in the community facilities and she also has heard about a proposed skateboard park.

Yet without more money, Mac- omber said, those projects simply cannot happen.

She said one alternative to increas- ing the sales tax is to increase property taxes.

The 8.225 percent sales tax will raise $532,476; the proposed 7.725 percent sales tax will raise $613,097.

Rowe and Macomber said they sent letters to 25 citizens who requested filling the Council meeting Monday night.

The purpose of the citizens was to demonstrate that the park sales tax would not happen.

Yet without more money, Macomber said, these projects simply will not happen.