Nightclub stampede kills 21 patrons

NEW YORK (AP) —Millions of protesters marched in dozens of countries around the world Saturday as they poured into the streets to denounce the war in Iraq and the United States' hardline on Prime Minister Tony Blair, who has been Europe's top diplomat on the war.

In Spain, several million people turned out at anti-war rallies in Madrid and Bilbao in a day of demonstrations that turnedinto a giant party as the night went on. In Madrid, a crowd of about 150,000 demonstrators filled up a road outside the German embassy in Madrid.
