postseason.

The Bulldogs scored 56 points in the second half, including 18 free throws in the period to put the game out of reach. "We played the second half as a transition offense the whole quarter," head coach Matt Schrader said. "We expanded the court and had 10-15 boards in transition to start the half and exclusively in the second half. The second half was the Missouri Southern scoreless loss. The Lions couldn't buy a basket offensively and defensively in the second half and "We had 32 points in the second half," head coach Matt Schrader said. "They were real tough for our guys because of our depth, but we're playing well."

Junior guard Ameer Watts led the team with 17 points, including nine of the team's last 15 points. Watts was a key factor in the second half to extend the lead to at least 20 points. "We're playing well, but we're very consistent," Schrader said. "They're adapting real well and everyone's playing background." Senior Meghan Konrad said the individual aspect of the sport allows younger players to have an impact sooner than on most team sports. "You normally think that having those older players because of their experience, but our single-season seniors have stepped into starting roles where it's not as important to have the individual aspect of the game." Kendall said. "And the only doubles points we're going to see are the doubles points." The Tigers will come to life. The Lions hit seven of ten free throws in the second half and four of eight in the second half. "We played the first half at an amazing clip," Schrader said. "But we opened the second half playing at the right speed."

"It was really tough for our guys to take care of the ball and make good decisions from the start," Sodemann said. "We have to learn some valuable lessons from such a loss."

Junior forward Annie Westhoff had 17 points and eight rebounds for the game. The team was scheduled to host Quincy University (Iowa) and Hannibal-LaGrange College (Missouri) prior to the winter weather canceling games. The team was scheduled to host Quincy (Iowa) and Hannibal-LaGrange (Missouri) prior to the winter weather canceling games. The team will face Monmouth (Illinois) and Missouri Southern on Friday in O’Fallon, Ill.

"You normally think that having those older players because of their experience, but our single-season seniors have stepped into starting roles where it's not as important to have the individual aspect of the game." Kendall said. "And the only doubles points we're going to see are the doubles points." The Tigers will come to life. The Lions hit seven of ten free throws in the second half and four of eight in the second half. "We played the first half at an amazing clip," Schrader said. "But we opened the second half playing at the right speed."

"It was really tough for our guys to take care of the ball and make good decisions from the start," Sodemann said. "We have to learn some valuable lessons from such a loss."

Junior forward Annie Westhoff had 17 points and eight rebounds for the game. The team was scheduled to host Quincy University (Iowa) and Hannibal-LaGrange College (Missouri) prior to the winter weather canceling games. The team was scheduled to host Quincy (Iowa) and Hannibal-LaGrange (Missouri) prior to the winter weather canceling games. The team will face Monmouth (Illinois) and Missouri Southern on Friday in O’Fallon, Ill.