Muslim leader dispels prejudices

Mukhtar Abdul Khoirom, president of the Islamic Society of North America, begins his lecture by defining basic terms of Islam. Abdul Khoirom spoke at a 23-year span. His lecture is sponsored by the Funds Allotment Council and Student Affairs.

New Greek code of conduct seeks to seal loopholes in original

Catherine Coleman Staff Reporter

Representatives from the Greek organizations on campus recently reviewed the Greek code of conduct with the hope of making its language more clear and its enforcement process more transparent. The new code reflects a growing concern for the responsibility of organized student life. The old code contained vague language and allowed for a wide range of interpretation. The new code, however, specifically defines Greek events and the power of those events. The new code also addresses a number of issues that were not addressed in the original code of conduct. The new code is expected to be ratified by April 15.

Cummings said that the new code of conduct was created by the Greek organizations themselves. The new code was created in response to a number of concerns that were raised by the members of the Greek community. The new code was also created in response to a number of changes that have occurred in the Greek community in recent years. The new code is expected to be ratified by April 15.

The new code reflects a growing concern for the responsibility of organized student life. The old code contained vague language and allowed for a wide range of interpretation. The new code specifically defines Greek events and the power of those events. The new code also addresses a number of issues that were not addressed in the original code of conduct. The new code is expected to be ratified by April 15.

The presentation is being held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam. The presentation will be held to help fulfill the promise of Islam.