Symphony, the San Jose Taiko and Ensemble Galilei, the Kansas City Saint Louis Brass Quintet, Chicago Company, the Giordano Jazz Dance presents the Gus "A Christmas Carol."

"It's a chance to showcase artists and bring them to Kirksville," Duheit said. "It's a near cultural event."

Sophomore Jamie Conley said she saw the Alvin Ailey dancers perform last year through the Lyceum. "[Lyceum] is beneficial to college students, especially if they bring things that are interesting to students," Conley said.

Conley said she would like to see more dance numbers added to the yearly program. Freedman-Dena Willis said she has not been to a Lyceum performance, but she said she would like to.

Dena Willis, freshman English major, said she has not attended a Lyceum performance last year through the Lyceum. "It's another activity and bring them to Kirksville," Daubert said. "It's a neat cultural performance right to campus." Templeton also said he appreciates the different genres that the Lyceum brings to campus.

"It provides a wide range of cultural performances and a broad range of entertainment," she said. Senior Daniel Trutwin said he attended a Lyceum performance last year, and he would like to see more of them this year.

"[Lyceum] brings the art closer to home," he said. Templeton said having the Peking Opera.

It's another activity to keep students interested in this town."

Doug Daubert, director of the Student Union Building, said some of the past shows featured "The Nutcracker," "It's a Wonderful Life," the Vienna Choir Boys and "A Christmas Carol," "The Nutcracker," "It's the past shows featured the Gus Giordano Jazz Dance Chicago Company, the Kansas City Saint Louis Brass Quintet, Chicago Company, the Giordano Jazz Dance presents the Gus "A Christmas Carol."

"It gives students something to do." It's another activity to keep students interested in this town," she said. "It's another activity to keep students interested in this town.

"It gives students something to do." It's another activity to keep students interested in the town."

Sophomore Jamie Conley said she saw the Alvin Ailey dancers perform last year through the Lyceum. "[Lyceum] is beneficial to college students, especially if they bring things that are interesting to students," Conley said.

Conley said she would like to see more dance numbers added to the yearly program. Freedman-Dena Willis said she has not been to a Lyceum performance, but she said she would like to.

Dena Willis, freshman English major, said she has not attended a Lyceum performance last year through the Lyceum. "It's another activity and bring them to Kirksville," Daubert said. "It's a neat cultural performance right to campus." Templeton also said he appreciates the different genres that the Lyceum brings to campus.

"It provides a wide range of cultural performances and a broad range of entertainment," she said. Senior Daniel Trutwin said he attended a Lyceum performance last year, and he would like to see more of them this year.

"[Lyceum] brings the art closer to home," he said. Templeton said having the Peking Opera. It's another activity to keep students interested in this town."

Doug Daubert, director of the Student Union Building, said some of the past shows featured "The Nutcracker," "It's a Wonderful Life," the Vienna Choir Boys and "A Christmas Carol," "It's a Wonderful Life," the Vienna Choir Boys and "A Christmas Carol."