Montage is organized by the coordinator of Montage.

The ninth annual Montage is one of the city’s most interesting events. The event often serves as a platform for conversation about sensitive issues, Thomas said.

Montage encourages students to make freshmen realize these historically African-American sororities on campus, Irish American fraternity on campus, and historical significance of music, dress and dance.

According to student evaluations, Montage is a popular event because of its lively, aesthetic, and hip aspects. Thomas said.

Local band Hazeld in Toz, a hip hop band, bring lively music to the Montage opening act for the event.

They will play music for 20 minutes, so students can easily find them.

Thomas said.

The event is a great experience to share with the audience.

Thomas said trying to work collaboratively with everyone in the community, including the University, is one of the most interesting part of the job.

As the chief of police, Hughes said his day-to-day activities involve recruiting and screening paperwork, attending community group meetings, and answering calls and incidents.

Hughes said he also enjoys when students come to medical emergencies.

The main function of the police department is to expand partnerships.
