Continued from Page 5

It’s a cross section of many different aspects of the country. We have cities, like St. Louis, that are closer to us; some of the most rural areas, like St. Louis, which are also in the South. It’s a large, wonderful base and a large talent population," Ishiyama said.

More candidates originally had focused their sites on South Carolina, the first primary in a Southern state.

"South Carolina will be very important because in the past, candidates who didn’t attract the crowds in South Carolina didn’t win," Ishiyama said.

It will be difficult to test in other states. There won’t be any other state that has all the various components of Iowa and New Hampshire. It’s a bellwether state," Ishiyama said.

"We’ve got candidates going to places that are closer to home. It represents a Democratic Party that is trying to make a wide range of appeal. It’s a cross section of the country. It’s a cross section of the Democratic base. It’s a cross section of voters," Ishiyama said.

"It’s a cross section of many different aspects of the county. We have cities, like St. Louis, that are closer to us; some of the most rural areas, like St. Louis, which are also in the South. It’s a large, wonderful base and a large talent population," Ishiyama said.

More candidates originally had focused their sites on South Carolina, the first primary in a Southern state.

"South Carolina will be very important because in the past, candidates who didn’t attract the crowds in South Carolina didn’t win," Ishiyama said.

It will be difficult to test in other states. There won’t be any other state that has all the various components of Iowa and New Hampshire. It’s a bellwether state," Ishiyama said.

"We’ve got candidates going to places that are closer to home. It represents a Democratic Party that is trying to make a wide range of appeal. It’s a cross section of the country. It’s a cross section of the Democratic base. It’s a cross section of voters," Ishiyama said.

"It’s a cross section of many different aspects of the county. We have cities, like St. Louis, that are closer to us; some of the most rural areas, like St. Louis, which are also in the South. It’s a large, wonderful base and a large talent population," Ishiyama said.

More candidates originally had focused their sites on South Carolina, the first primary in a Southern state.

"South Carolina will be very important because in the past, candidates who didn’t attract the crowds in South Carolina didn’t win," Ishiyama said.

It will be difficult to test in other states. There won’t be any other state that has all the various components of Iowa and New Hampshire. It’s a bellwether state," Ishiyama said.

"We’ve got candidates going to places that are closer to home. It represents a Democratic Party that is trying to make a wide range of appeal. It’s a cross section of the country. It’s a cross section of the Democratic base. It’s a cross section of voters," Ishiyama said.