Synopsis:

Set against the political landscape of medieval Italy, the story follows a young papal enforcer, Cesare Borgia (Hayley Atwell), as she becomes entangled in a web of deceit, betrayal, and ambition that threatens to undermine the very principles that she holds dear. With each turn of the plot, Cesare must navigate the treacherous waters of the Vatican, where power and influence are the currency of the game. As she uncovers the dark secrets of the papacy, Cesare must decide whether to sacrifice her own principles for the greater good, or to stand firm against the corrupt forces that seek to destroy everything she holds dear.

Review:

This is an excellent film that captures the complex world of the Middle Ages in all its splendor and corruption. The performances are top-notch, with Atwell delivering a powerful and nuanced portrayal of Cesare Borgia. The film's visual style is stunning, and the score is haunting and evocative. Overall, this is a must-see for anyone interested in historical fiction or gripping performances.

Box Office:

The film was released in 2019 and grossed over $150 million at the box office, making it a financial success.

Verdict:

Highly recommended for fans of historical fiction and gripping performances.
