Same-sex couple benefits resolution promotes equality

It is important to be progressive. Through sustainability initiatives and technological advancements, Truman State has made the world a better place. This is no different when it comes to same-sex couple benefits. Truman should consider extending such benefits to its employees. This is a conversation that isn't going to die down. Truman must think through all the potential future student and employee applicants to come to the University. However, this is a conversation that isn't going to die down. Truman must think through all the potential

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to your recent article regarding the lack of same-sex couple benefits at Truman State University. As a Truman student, I strongly believe that the University should take the lead in providing such benefits. The lack of these benefits is not only exclusionary, but it also goes against the values of inclusivity and equality that plague society today.

Sincerely,
