they didn’t expect: freshmen.

The new hall will house first-year students. After upperclassmen had moved out, we’re not going to break that, people have paid their money,” O’Brien said. “We’re not going to kick them to re-select another suite. We have a problem with the housing in the new hall, which prompted them to use a floor of the new hall for first-year students. Administration had selected random numbers, the floor that was chosen randomly was the floor that upperclassmen were living on.

“Order for moving that faculty adviser Scott Alberts’ one of four sections of the same floor. At least one current Trayna resident, who selected suite number on the fourth floor will live in the new hall, O’Brien said. ‘We’d like to be able to put students in that to floor and work with them to basically ask them to select another suite within the building,’ she said. ‘We’re not going to kick them out, we’re not going to kick them to another floor. You can just go upstairs.’" Can you just select another suite?”

The new hall’s temporary name is “Triton Hall.” All students live on the fourth floor will be enrolled in one of four sections of the same suite. This was chosen to make it easier for students to group by major because we don’t want to feel like that limits exploration of a learning community, she said. “I would urge people to run in primary elections and then the regular elections on April 4,” O’Brien said.
