Presidential forum reduced to formality

The Presidential Search Committee will now take a number of actions that would not have been possible for the search process that occurred before Truman was founded and faculty. The Board of Truman to dismiss the search for the next president is one such action. Without the rusky election had to adjust to the demands of the index. As the result of this election, two new editors are now on the staff: Andrew Graham, who will serve as the new editor-in-chief, and Sarah Thompson, who will serve as the managing editor.

The index is committed to continuing to serve the student body and the wider community through its coverage of local, national, and international news and events. We hope that all of our readers will continue to support the index and to contribute to its success.

Letters to the Editor

An advertisement for the next Truman State University President should not be seen as a form of government propaganda. It is an opportunity for citizens to have their voices heard and to express their opinions on important local issues.

The index welcomes letters to the editor on any topic of interest, provided they are submitted in a timely manner and are not longer than 250 words. All letters will be reviewed by the editorial board and published at the discretion of the editors.

The index is committed to providing a platform for diverse perspectives and ideas. We encourage readers to submit letters expressing a wide range of viewpoints and to engage in respectful and constructive dialogue.

The index is grateful to all of its readers for their contributions and support. We look forward to continuing to serve the community as a reliable source of news and information.
